HOME NEWSPAPER

Vol. 42 No. 7

40 YEARS AGO

Farmers' wives in the county around," writes Elvira Snyder Miller, in the Jeffersonian, this week, forty years ago, "are complaining of the hopelessness of getting women help, and during the harvest time they are forced to turn themselves down with hard work in hot kitchens. This is good as a flesh reducer, but when a woman has little children and is not strong she is an object of pity. City charitable institutions should come more to the rescue... but demands made for this assistance are far in excess of funds provided, and try as they may, the good ladies who need this help, can never make both ends meet. There has never been a charity commission who could either. More city folk might be happier in the country and more country folk might help their sisters out in harvest time even just for a spell." Berry, for example, are now wanted, and many are needed from the city to help in their farm work.

Robbers were still at work in Jefferson county. The home of Mr. Obed Terry at Fairmount was broken into and $100 stolen. Mrs. Terry was out milking at the time. Miss Mayne E. Keller of Colorado, Mrs. Osborne of St. Matthews; Miss Laura Briscoe of Newburg and Miss Estelle Crum of Louisville. Conrad Heeb, a blacksmith employed by Thomas Aash, was drowned in Salt River last Wednesday. He dived into the deep hole known as "Cottonwood Hole" against the advice of friends, and though a good swimmer, went down to his death. He was 58 and had resided in Louisville.

Bergin of Cologne, South America, and Superintendent of the Railway Company, was in Jeffersontown, his table home, and called at The Jeffersonian office. INDEPENDENCE DAY

Let us, this July Fourth, observe the anniversary of American independence, not alone in the spirit of celebrating an achievement of 1776, but with a full recognition that independence - freedom as we know it - is a responsibility and a privilege we must continue to earn and maintain in 1948, working as a united people for and within the framework of our democratic principles.

My Neighbors

By Bill Patton

At this time I am especially concerned about the property tax. It is my job of course, to be concerned about the immediate problems of taxation as evasion of the gas tax. When you have a truck operator who run into and out of Kentucky by a fair part of their gasoline in Kentucky and pay an appropriate amount, it helps maintain our highways is of immediate concern to all of us, the gravity of this problem is insignificant in comparison with problems associated with the general property tax. There are available reasonable and harsh methods of encouraging gasoline tax evaders to pay taxes the rest of us would use the method named depending upon the persistence of the evader. The duty to collect all gasoline taxes due would, of course, mean that certain motorists would pay more than their fair share of the cost of constructing and maintaining our highways. It would also mean that the state would have less money available for this purpose. But it would not constitute a threat to the continued existence and functioning of our democracy.

The property tax, on the other hand, is the mainstay of all local government. There is no other proven source adequate to finance local government. This tax alone constitutes the major source of revenue for meeting the general operating costs of city and county government and, even with greatly increased state appropriations for these purposes, a substantial support of rural roads.

Despite its importance, the property tax is in a bad state of repair. The likelihood is you are not assessed equitably with your neighbor. The game seems to be to list property as low as we can or as our consciences will let us, regardless of value. If the total assessment is not enough to produce the money required to finance the local government we demand or deserve, we have faith that our officials will get a blanket raise put on the assessment, go in debt or get the money from Frankfort or Washington. Yet we complain (I do) that Frankfort and Washington are dabbling too much in our business at home. We forget the inevitable influence of the purse string and are inclined because the money appears to be coming from somewhere else to condone its rather free expenditure. This forces Frankfort or Washington to increase its influence. We drive our government away from us.

A recent impasse in the administration of the general property tax provides an excellent illustration of how counties and the school districts lose independence through failure to provide for themselves before seeking assistance elsewhere. The statistics require the Kentucky Tax Commission to certify that the property within a school district is assessed as near value as property on the average throughout the state before the district may receive state funds for education, in addition to the usual per capita money. A majority of the counties and independent school districts which must meet other requirements necessary to qualify them to receive state school equalization aid had a property assessment level well below the state average. The Tax Commission had to make alternative exceptions to give all the counties a blanket percentage increase of all property assessments in these districts or refuse to certify to the state that the school districts are in compliance with the policy of placing tentative rates on property assessments in these counties to enable the school districts to state to the state for equalization aid. Some of these increases were extraordinary. In some cases, in the schools, school officials elected to forego the assistance, and in at least one of these the school program will be substantially up. This type of government is not good. In this instance it stemmed from bad local property assessments. It resulted in unfair treatment of taxpayers - and, worse, in the final determination of the amount to be spent in particular county or school district being made by state instead of local officials. The net effect was a surrender, through default of local independence.

Although these observations are confined largely to taxation, much the same situation prevails in respect to other government activities. I think most of us believe that the state and Federal governments should completely fund and administer many functions and that the Federal and state governments should provide aid for other functions so that minimum standards of government service can be available in less wealthy areas, but we do not want this to be carried to the point where it may result in our losing control of our schools and public officials.

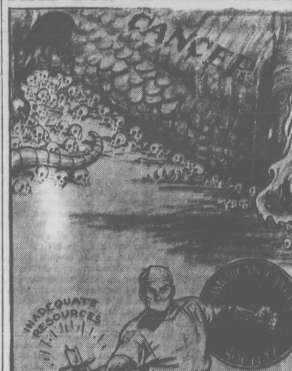

Where there have been dictatorial history shows that first tax government defaulted on its responsibility to provide the prerogatives to a central government. When the people let government get away from them and its power out of their hands, somebody else picked it up.

Jeffersontown is certainly enjoying their time. John Frieson and Miss Eva Simpson are in charge.

Newburg is partial to folk dancing, enough said, we know what this community can do. Mrs. Anna Tinker is giving her lot to the little people.

Orell is getting along swell. Little Charles Rawlings is doing some unusual work in clay. Miss Willie Mae Miller is getting ahead of the others, too. We do want to thank Mrs. Emma Rowan in this community for helping in the transportation problem. If we had more people of this type what swell centers we would have.

Oh! Yes, Berrytown has organized a lovely sewing unit. They are going places here. I hope other communities will do likewise; sewing is a great necessity. Don't forget the grand opening of Jeffersontown's tournament at the same place.

Highview Playground To Crown Queen Tonight

By Dave Wilson

News from High View this week says in seven much shorter days the well has been dug at a cost of $120 and the playground lights have gone up on the hill. The final touches are to be made on the lights before inspection and lighted by the city on Tuesday. The lights will be ready for a pair of wins against Lyndon.

High View has been shown in all coming events especially in the coming movies Friday night with the crowning of the High View Teen-Age Queen. With all the good looking gals in High View we should be able to send a sure winner for the Forest Queen at the Water Reveal.

As much as has been done on the playground it must be admitted that most of the work has been the result of a few hard workers. The crewing, hauling, cutting, hole digging, carpenter work and a multitude of other work has been done mainly by a few people. The understanding that almost every one in the community has expressed is that minimum standards of government service can be available in less wealthy areas, but we do not want this to be carried to the point where it may result in our losing control of our schools and public officials.

Where there have been dictatorial history shows that first tax government defaulted on its responsibility to provide the prerogatives to a central government. When the people let government get away from them and its power out of their hands, somebody else picked it up.

Independent, responsible local government is the heart of Americanism. If we foster it, we don't need to worry about other horshoes and other sports that offer more actual enjoyment than any commercial recreation. This could go on forever, but it won't.

Louise Borrie Queen At Lyndon Playground

Interest in playground activities continues to grow. The first time since the birth of recreation at Lyndon, there were four teams playing on community last Monday. Some were present as spectators with babies in their arms. One who was thinking ahead of the others, too, advantage of a wheel-barrow on the grounds and made a bed out of it for her baby.

The rhythm band at its last practice attracted quite an audience. It has grown to about 20 and several more are expected to come in. Its first public performance was on Tuesday, June 29.

Playground games such as bad de tennis, volley ball, and badminton, continue to be popular and ring tennis has just been introduced this week.

Excitement ran high over the selection of a playground queen. Louise Barrie finally coming out victorious.

Halek, of Indiana; Senator John

Bricker, of Ohio; Governor Warren was put forth the Dewey choice for the post.

Governor Earl Warren, governor of California, was contacted to be vice-president by announcement after Arizona had withdrawn the name of Harold R. Stassen.

Actually the colorful New York governor's nomination came by unanimous vote after he had demonstrated unprecedented strength on the first ballot over six other candidates. Mr. Dewey, the nomination,

Governor Dewey polled 434 votes on the first ballot to 944 for Senator

Robert A. Taft, of Ohio, nearest competitor, with former Governor Harold R. Stassen trailing in third place with 197 votes. Senator

Arthur Vandenberg, of Michigan, polled 62; Senator Raymond Baldwin, of Connecticut; Speaker

Mr. Martin, of Massachusetts; 11;

Carroll Reece, of Tennessee, chairman of the GOP national committee; 1; General of the Army

Douglas MacArthur, 11; Governor

Dwight Green, of Illinois; 56; Governor Earl Warren, of California, 59; and Congressman

Beverly M. Dierkes, of Illinois, 1.

Governor Dewey won the nomination because he had the best organization, because his opponent underestimated his strength and despite the fact it broke a Republican party precedent of never having nominated a losing candidiate.

The two-time nominee was the party's standard bearer in 1944, was given a tremendous ovation when he came into the convention accompanied by his personal wife.

His nomination came swiftly after

Senator John Bricker, of Ohio, had withdrawn Senator Taft's name and Stassen had himself gone to the platform to withdraw in favor of Dewey. They were quickly followed by Governor Warren, of California, and the others.

Governor Dewey told the delegates he accepted the nomination

"unfettered by a single obligation or promise to any living person."

His acceptance speech, which evidently had been prepared in advance, since it was delivered microphone form to the press before he made it, was on a high plane of a "political upsurge."

"Our problem," he said, "is most of all spiritual. Our problem is not outside ourselves. Our problem is within ourselves. . . we have deserted noble plans for a new world. Without a new spirit, our nobles plans will come to naught."

Dewey in Center

Of Early Activity

Governor Dewey came into the convention as the leading candidiate, with approximately 350 votes pledged to him on the first ballot and possibly some 50 to 75 votes as a reserve upon which he could count after favorite son candidates had been moved out of the picture.

The New York governor's managers decided, however, after they failed to improve the governor's position in the first two days of the convention, to snout the votes on the first ballot in an effort to start a bandwagon stampede of delegates for the New York. The maneuver, done psychologically in many instances, became known as the "Dewey blitz."

It had one effect, however, it united the other leading candidates in a move to "stop Dewey." Senator Robert A. Taft, of Ohio, second man, with some 350 or more delegates on the first ballot and former Governor Harold R. Stassen, of Minnesota, with some 175 delegates, along with the Connecticut state chairman, Governor Ken Sigler, of Michigan, and some other delegate leaders held a meeting at which they canvassed the situation and decided that Mr. Dewey did not have the votes he claimed.

Further, the Dewey "blitz" brought

Senator Arthur Vandenberg

from out of his cocoon as a dark-horse bid into the picture and an active candidate to be nominated on the first roll call of the platform.

First shown-down was a split in the Pennsylvania delegation of 13 votes resulting in the withdrawal of Senator Edward Martin, of Pennsylvania, a favorite son candidate in favor of Governor Dewey, thirving roughly half of the delegation to the New York. This did not change the picture in the keynote speech, however, since it meant only that the other half of the keynote speech delegation controlled by Governor James J. Duff would go to Senator Vandenberg on the first ballot instead of waiting until a later ballot.

Then the Missouri delegation splitted with Senator James F. Kenney, of that state going to Governor

Dewey with his following of the delegation and Senator Forrest

Donnell holding out for Senator

Taft with his Missouri delegates.

Governor Alfred E. Driscoll, of New Jersey, who had been striving for the Vandenberg candidacy for several weeks then pulled into the Dewey camp and was elected to the platform. Up to this point before the balloting started, Governor Dewey had reached the peak of his claimed strength.

Confident Spirit

Highlights Sessions

Great demonstrations for the delegates started the wild and untimidated session which lasted long into Wednesday night, then into Thursday morning and finally into

Friday morning when a last night crowd attending the convention.

There was an air of "Deweyism" responsibility about these delegates which did not lend itself to hilarity or horse-play to any large degree.

These delegates gathered here were all convinced they were naming the next President of the United States and that 1948 is a sure winner for the Republican party.

The best demonstration up to the roll call of states came from Herbert Hoover, former president and GOP elder statesman who responded to the platform by Alf

Landon, of Kansas, the 1928 nominee. Mr. Hoover was given a 15-minute demonstration and he responded by a 15-minute demonstration.

For the first time network television carried the live scene of the convention to the eastern seaboard from Richmond north to Boston.

All television networks "pooled" their shots and fed through a central broadcast station so that all television sets received the same image.

Farm Reforms Urged for Poland

A Polish woman worker shovels apples dumped in an outdoor bin. A mission of the U.N. Food and Agriculture Organization (FAO) reports that Poland's food supply is in a state of emergency and has recommended sweeping reforms to raise food production. Among the measures suggested are improvements in the home and commercial processing of fruits and vegetables and a system of rationing.

CAPITOL COMMENTS
By David M. Porter

The Republican party has made its choice for its standard bearer in the fall election. It was a momentous decision in this time of unrest and international uncertainty. It is the third time that Dewey has tried for the nomination and the second time he has obtained it. Most political observers believe that this time he will become President. He is comparatively young for a presidential candidate, has made a marvelous record as Governor of the state of New York and for the last 12 years has been preparing himself for the presidency. Long in the public eye, no one can ignore his ability and integrity. His record as Governor of New York shows that he is a business administrator as well as a politician. He has saved the state of New York and the taxpayers of that state, millions of dollars by his wise and astute planning.

His running mate on the ticket, Governor Warren of California, was prominently mentioned as the leading dark horse candidate for the presidential nomination and many were surprised when he accepted the second place on the ticket. In the system of voting in California, a candidate may run on both the Democratic and Republican tickets in the primary. If he wins both party nominations there is no election because he is automatically in. This may seem a peculiar situation to us in Kentucky where the party lines are definitely drawn and where, until a short time ago, an "independent" voter was almost unheard of. But Governor Warren has won the nomination of both parties for Governor and would have remained Governor for many years if the Governor for many years of the state of California had not been elected. It was a smart move of Dewey and Republican leaders to get Warren on the ticket as it is certain to assure California its large bloc of electoral votes, going Republican.

Perhaps the last surprise of any Kentuckian over Dewey's nomination was national committeeman, Joseph Ross Todd, who has been an admirer and friend of Thomas E. Dewey and has been working towards his nomination for the last four years, both in Kentucky and with his friends throughout the country.

In the event that Dewey is elected, Todd can be one of the key men in his administration and in all probability will be offered the ambassadorship to Ireland. All through the last Republican years of the New Deal, Todd fought financial matters along the same line as the party. He has been working for the party for many years and has been working towards his nomination for the last four years, both in Kentucky and with his friends throughout the country.

The Department of Agriculture through the Division of Marketing and Inspection has issued a bulletin concerning certain commercial market shorts and shortages that may be of value to Kentucky farmers. In these times of modern transportation and communication, it has been a paradox that while there might be millions of bushels of surplus and low priced potatoes and shortages of wheat, as an example, Kentucky farmers would go on planting potatoes in considerable quantities and the information sent out from Washington, Kentucky farmers may know, well in advance of planting, what crops there may be a shortage of and what crops may bring good prices.

RANDOLPH SPOFFORD Bums has it that Carl Perkins of the seventh district may have an administration backing in his bid for the Democratic Congressional nomination. Our granville tells us that this does not set too well with district Judge Ed Hill of Prestonsburg State Senator Doug Hayes, Dr. Paul Hall of Paintsville or Dr. J. C. Coldiron of Hazard who were early announced candidates for the office. This may lead to a rift that will assure the re-election of Congressman W. House Meade, the Republican candidate.

The coming Democratic Senate primary will be watched by observers all over the country because the labor vote may or may not decide the contest. Candidate John Y. Brown, an attorney from Lexington, Kentucky has been represented by the United Mine Workers and has been closely associated with labor which Ed Porter, secretary of the Kentucky Federation of Labor, has denounced Congressman Virgil Chapman's stand on the Taft-Hartley bill and has publicly stated that labor would fight him. Virgil Chapman has a close connection with the farmers of the state and was one of the leaders in fighting for farm aid in Congress. Never has Kentucky had a primary where the lines of labor and agriculture have been more clearly drawn.

It is recognized that labor can get back with Mrs. Charles Fox, where they went last week. They are sure got sunburned.

Mr. Mart Hornbeck is getting better. He expects to come home next Friday.

Mrs. Pearl Snodgrass spent the week end with Mrs. Charles Fox, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fox, Jimmy and wife and sister, Martha Bell took a trip through five states. They got back last week.

Mrs. Alice Moore is improving and may be home soon.

Mrs. Clyde Eldridge has been quite sick.

BABSON DISCUSSES POLITICAL HISTORIC TENDENCY

to these various Commissions, the members of which are APPOINTED instead of ELECTED. No Conservative Administration could ever have brought about these changes in Government; in fact, they came only through the personality of Franklin Roosevelt and under war conditions. Now, however, the Republican Party if successful in power would inherit these huge powers.

Outlook For Business
Under the above circumstances, it appears that four or more years of good business may be ahead, with perhaps our country entering a post new era of expansion with untold possibilities. Not only are our opportunities great, but far-seeing capitalists are realizing that they must share more with labor, must take a greater interest in the welfare of the people and in fact, must avoid another severe period of unemployment in order to save their own skin. In short, there are signs that our financial and business interests are really "getting religion," and are convinced that they must apply this religion to overcome Communism. Of course, based upon this same Law of Action and Reaction, the Conservatives will someday again abuse this power and another New Deal Administration will again have its turn. We, however, need not discuss this now.

High View News

By Mrs. Joe Basso

Showers of blessings fell in the High View community when we received a nice rain Saturday afternoon and night. Many a garden was saved as well as other crops. We are thankful for every drop.

Rev. D. H. Friend, of Louisville, preached at High View Church of Christ Sunday night. Week-end guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Koehler were his sister, Mrs. Ora Donovan, her niece, Mrs. Fred Dills and Mr. Dills from Clay, Ky.

Several in this neighborhood are on their vacations this week. They are Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Goin, who have gone to Cincinnati to visit her brother, Cecil Clark and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Gray and daughter, Ann, have gone to Chicago for a few days.

State Has Fewer Accidents This Year

Frankfort - Kentucky was one of 21 states showing a decrease in highway deaths for the first four months of 1948, compared with the same period of last year, a National Safety Council survey shows.

The council reported 138 deaths occurred in Kentucky from January through April this year, seven per cent less than the 1947 total of 148. For the same period of 1946, 247 persons lost their lives on Kentucky highways.

Two out of three American adults wear seatbelts, according to a recent Gallup poll.
